

A Touch of Lavender

Rustic Elegance

Perhaps it's appropriate that Black Barn is a historical labour of love. After all, it is authentic love that brings couples to the original homestead established in 1902. Situated near the banks of Pipestone Creek, surrounded by 454 acres of Alberta farmland, Black Barn has evolved into a rustic chic atmosphere coupled with vintage elegance. With an open air patio and views of the southern vista, Sugar Plum Events focused on an overtly feminine aesthetic to capture the essence of a lighthearted, youthful romance. The bride and groom wed beneath expansive open-beam ceilings and four antique-inspired chandeliers where lush floral arrangements touted their free flowing beauty.

The Love Boat

A backdrop of tree-lined paths as you row across calm water provides a serene setting for an intimate moment alone. The quintessential white rowboat synonymous with Nicholas Sparks', The Notebook, sends us back in time to an achingly tender story about the enduring power of love. With Katelyn Anne Photography present to snap portraits once you are officially married, soak in the precious feeling with your newly minted spouse and the raw emotions that follow before the excitement of the reception.

The couple returned to shore and entered the 3,800 square feet of indoor space which was effortlessly transformed into a charming yet modern dinner party. Full of lovely, sweet smelling flowers, soft hues of lavender and pale blue graced the colour scheme. Guests found their seats in the form of delightfully presented love notes. Simple centrepieces showcasing just a few blooms and berries alongside ice-cream toned tapered candlesticks lined the family-style tables. An ultra-tall cake designed by Wild Rose Cakes created a stunning statement while keeping the décor subtle.

At the end of the evening, the newlyweds said a final farewell before driving away in a vintage Jaguar convertible. The bride's bespoke diamond ring by Sonja Deklerk against her apple blossom floral dress with voluminous sheer sleeves, a lace up corset bodice, and fluid tiered skirt established a harmonious sense of style reminiscent of the romantic, Victorian-era. The modern tale of true love comes alive through the art of celebration narrated by the creatives who sought to provide a soulful, whimsy experience.
